Introduction

Maple syrup is a pure, all natural sweetener that can be diluted and fermented to create a pleasant, full-bodied wine with elegant structure and strong maple character. However, without proper materials and technique, it is easy to make a poor quality wine that is bitter, astringent or sickly sweet. The purpose of this book is to provide technical guidance for the production of maple wine and details on the legal procedure for becoming a wine producer in New York State.

Traditional wines are created through the fermentation of grape juice sugars by specialized yeasts. This ancient industry has seen a surge in growth in recent decades. The New York State wine industry generates over $4.8 billion in annual economic activity. An increased interest in local wines creates an opportunity for non-traditional wines produced with alternative sugars. With maple wine, maple producers can tap this lucrative and expanding market.

Maple wine is not new, but for a variety of reasons it has not gained traction in the marketplace as a desirable, value-added maple product. One reason is the technical challenge of creating a good quality maple wine. To overcome this obstacle, the Cornell Maple Program collaborated with six undergraduate students completing their capstone project in the Departments of Food Science and Viticulture and Enology to establish best practices for producing maple wine. The goal was to make a distinctive wine with maple syrup as the only sugar source, strong notes of maple in the flavor profile, and a good balance of tannins and acidity to create a complex structure.

Another barrier to the production and sale of maple wine is the regulatory environment surrounding alcohol. Compliance through several state and federal agencies is required creating a potentially confusing array of licenses and permits. To resolve this issue, the Cornell Maple Team again paired with Food Science students to develop clear guidance describing the regulatory and practical requirements for maple wine production and sale in New York State.

Results from the fermentation trials as well as the compiled information regarding becoming a licensed wine producer in New York State have been presented as a guidebook attached as Appendix C of this report.

Maple Wine Production

To determine the feasibility of fermenting maple syrup in a manner similar to that done with grape wine, two different experiments were conducted. The first was to isolate the ideal yeast strain to use, and the second was to allow for a greater array of post-fermentation treatments to be evaluated. These experiments were done sequentially, allowing for recommendations from the first trial to be implemented in the following one.

Adjustments

Maple syrup has limited to no yeast nutrients. Therefore, the yeast was rehydrated in Go-Ferm following standard procedures, adding 150ppm (parts per million) Yeast Assimilable Nitrogen (YAN) at inoculation and another 150ppm YAN at $\frac{1}{3}$ fermentation completion. This was done to avoid yeast stress and the production of hydrogen sulfide off- aromas. While grapes are composed of water, sugar, acid, nitrogen, and phenolic compounds, maple syrup is cooked, distilled tree sap, and is composed primarily of sucrose, with some glucose and fructose. This comparison is necessary to understand the vastly different environments that yeasts experience during a maple wine fermentation prior to any adjustments.

Key aspects of the maple syrup composition were altered prior to fermentation to provide a more hospitable habitat for yeast fermentation. First, the sugar concentration was significantly decreased to provide a reasonable concentration of fermentable sugars while avoiding a finished product with extremely high sugar content. With the initial yeast strain trials, two dilutions were used. Five yeast strains fermented at a 1:2 part volumetric syrup to water ratio, and three of those yeast strains also fermented in a 1:1 dilution. In the later fermentation, a single yeast strain was selected to ferment in a 2:3 dilution which was determined to be ideal from the results of the initial trial. These dilutions were accomplished by slowly adding syrup to a beaker of heated water while stirring continuously.

In the first trial, we concluded that a 1:1 dilution resulted in final residual sugar concentrations that were too high and overpowered the wine. We also concluded that the 1:2 dilution fermented to dryness resulting in staunchly dry wines that were unbalanced and had too strong of an alcohol burn. These results of the sensory analysis from trial one are summarized in Appendix A, Table 1. In the second trial, we chose a 2:3 dilution to achieve a wine with moderate alcohol content and moderate residual sugar. We recommend this dilution rate and to halt the fermentation before it reaches 14% alcohol by volume to ensure that it can be considered a wine based on the standards of identity provided by the Code of Federal Regulations and described in the provided guidebook. At this dilution rate, the residual sugar should be between 1 and 2% which results in a balanced wine.

Next, the pH was adjusted to prevent microbial spoilage and create a favorable environment for Saccharomyces cerevisiae yeast. This was done via the addition of tartaric acid which was chosen for ideal flavor qualities. The maple syrup dilutions were measured to have an initial pH of 6.09 for 1:2 dilution and 6.13 for 1:1 dilution. In each of the initial yeast trial samples, 4 grams per liter of tartaric acid were added, and 5 g/L were added to the post-fermentation trial, in powder form, directly to the dilutions. The pH after tartaric additions was measured to be roughly 4 in the yeast trials and 3.27 for the 2:3 dilution.

Finally, to alleviate the absence of yeast-assimilable nitrogen (YAN), an addition of 300 mg/L of Fermaid-K (commercial name of YAN product) was added to the maple syrup dilution. This was done prior to inoculation in the yeast trials, and after inoculation in the post-fermentation trial.

Yeast Trials

Five different strains of Saccharomyces cerevisiae yeast were selected to test on maple syrup fermentations. These selections were made based on the yeast's tolerance for alcohol (which corresponds to initial sugar concentration), typical fermentation speed, and their ability to impart traditionally maple syrup-associated notes to the final product. Selected yeast strains include 71B, EC1118, V1116, ICV-D254, and BA11. Each strain was inoculated in one-liter 1:2 dilution of syrup. 71B, EC1118, and V1116 were also selected for inoculated in one liter at 1:1 dilution. The yeasts were rehydrated and inoculated using GoFerm, according to the recommended temperatures and dosages provided by the manufacturer. The fermentations were all monitored daily using an Anton Paar densitometer to track brix, and a YAN addition using Fermaid K was made approximately 1/3 of the way through the fermentations. Brix measurements for the yeast trial are presented in Appendix A, Figure 1.

Fermentations were halted by lowering the temperature of the wine to 3.9°C from a fermentation temperature of 20°C and adding sulfur in the form of potassium metabisulfite. The 1:2 dilutions were stopped after fermenting to dryness and the 1:1 dilutions were halted at the same time as the last 1:2 dilution, allowing for a total fermentation time of 19 days.

The first trial with multiple yeast strains gave us valuable insights to which strains perform best in a diluted syrup environment, and which produce desirable aromas and flavors. In terms of fermentation kinetics, strain 71B seemed to lag behind the rest of the strains and became stuck before completing the fermentation, as can be seen in Figure 1. Therefore, 71B is not a strain we recommend. In terms of flavor and aromatic complexity, strain V1116 produced the most desirable sensory profile in both high and low sugar concentrations. We also recommend this strain because it had the best fermentation kinetics in both dilutions.

After fermentations were arrested, the maple wine was treated with various fining methods to improve clarity including different types of isinglass and charcoal. After allowing these to settle, wine was racked off the lees. Filtering trials with commenced and were quickly abandoned due to an extreme loss of volume, even with coarse filters. We were unsuccessful in filtering out the charcoal, despite a considerable loss of volume, resulting in an unfavorable hue. In addition to filtering trials, oak tannins were added to each of the wines. Because of the minuscule nature of tannin additions and the equally small quantities of maple wine from each trial, most wines received different tannin treatments so that a number of tannins could be sampled. Results from tannin trials are outlined in Appendix A, Table 2.

Post-fermentation Trial

A second fermentation was initiated to give us a larger volume with which to test post-fermentation treatments in a more controlled manner. Five gallons of 2:3 dilution maple dilutions were prepared and treated with tartaric acid as described in the Yeast Trial methods. This dilution was then inoculated with V1116, again rehydrated and inoculated using GoFerm and according to the recommended temperatures and dosages provided by the manufacturer. One third of the fermentation period in, 300 mg/L of Fermaid K was added.

An Anton Paar densitometer was used to intermittently monitor this fermentation. It was halted at 0.97°Brix, after 21 days, based on sensory perception, by lowering the temperature to 11.5 degrees Celsius and adding 100ppm potassium metabisulfite. Following this, bentonite was added as a clarifying agent via a slurry and allowed to settle for one week, after which it was siphoned into a 6 gallon glass carboy. 15 ml BSG Liquid Oak Tannin Vanilla was added to simulate the flavor contribution of aging in an oak barrel.

Conclusions

Based on the results of these trials, a sample formulation was developed as a starting point for maple wine production. The recommended formulation provides for a maple wine produced from a 2:3 dilution of maple syrup using strain V1116 Saccharomyces cerevisiae. Detailed instructions are included as Appendix B. This formula will yield a wine with aromatic and flavor notes reminiscent of the desired qualities in maple syrup including notes of vanilla, caramel, and florals.

Commercial Wine Production

Developing a quality wine formulation is only the first step in the commercial production and sale of wine. Other considerations include licensing, regulatory requirements, equipment needs, and marketing planning. The guidebook Maple Wine 101, attached as Appendix C, provides an explanation of federal and New York State licensing requirements and regulations. This document also includes sample forms, marketing considerations and a description of possible startup equipment requirements.

So you're thinking about dabbling in fermentations? Great! Here are a few things you should know about getting started in the maple wine industry.

1. Getting Started

a. What is Maple Wine?

Maple wine is a fermented product made from the fermentation of a maple syrup dilution by Saccharomyces cerevisiae yeast. Acid and nitrogen additions are necessary to provide adequate fermentation conditions. Fining agents for clarification, tannins, and other flavor and aromatic aspects may be added. Maple Wine is defined by the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR Title 27 Chapter 1 Part 4 Subpart C §4.21 part F) as “wine from other agricultural products. (1)(i) Wine of this class is wine (other than grape wine, citrus wine, or fruit wine) made by the normal alcoholic fermentation of sound fermentable agricultural products, either fresh or dried”. Wines of this class may be table wine with an alcohol content not in excess of 14 percent by volume or a dessert wine with an alcohol content greater than 14 percent but not in excess of 24 percent by volume. In this class, wine derived wholly from a single agricultural product will be named “wine” quantified by the type of agricultural product. If more than one agricultural product is used (such as the addition of fruits), the name should thusly and truthfully reflect the composition of the wine product.” Therefore, wine made solely from maple syrup shall be labeled ‘maple wine’. For more information about the qualifying identity of maple wine, see the US Code of Federal Regulations linked below.

b. What Kind of Winery Do You Want To Be?

- i. Many NY State maple producers may qualify to register as a Farm Winery. Under this license, the manufacturer must produce wine with only products made in New York State. If you plan to produce less than 250,000 but greater than 50 gallons of wine annually and sell most of your product on premise, through wine dealers, or other distributors, the NY Farm Winery License may apply to your business. Reference the NY Senate website linked below to read the Alcoholic Beverage Control Article 6. Applications through New York State Liquor Authority can be found in section 2.a of this article.

1. New York Senate Consolidated Laws, Alcoholic Beverage Control Article 6: Section 76.A Farm Winery License

<https://www.nysenate.gov/legislation/laws/ABC/76-A>

- ii. The Alcohol and Tobacco Tax and Trade Bureau describes three avenues for entering the wine industry. Taking into consideration your goals as a wine facility, decide how you would like to participate in the fermentation process. A bonded winery will produce their own wine and require the equipment and facilities to complete fermentations, bottling, and sales. An alternating proprietor will still produce wine but will elect to share or rent equipment and facilities for production. A custom crush client would produce maple syrup and work with a winery to produce the wine for them. More information can be found at the TTB website linked below.

c. Getting Started

- i. Once your goals are set for the type of production you would like to undertake you may need to apply with New York State Liquor Authority, the TTB, and/or the FDA as a food production facility if you qualify and have not already registered. Application processes are detailed in Section 1. Facility and equipment needs are outlined in Section 4 as well as suggestions for formulations and additions for your wine fermentations. We suggest testing out a few rounds of fermentation to find the recipe that works for you and get a little practice with the fermentation process. 1. Bottling and Selling Wine

a. Bottling and Labeling Requirements

- i. When bottling and labeling, producers are responsible for accurate identification of product volume and alcohol content. During filling, bottles must be filled as nearly as possible to the amount shown on the label. For a standard bottle of wine at 750 mL, a variance of up to 2% by volume is allowed. There must be at least as many bottles overfilled as underfilled per lot. Specific information may be found at the link below.
 - 1. <https://www.govinfo.gov/content/pkg/CFR-2017-title27-vol1/xml/CFR-2017-title27-vol1-part24.xml>
- ii. Wine labels must be approved through the federal application process found at the TTB website linked below (1) and attached in Appendix B. The Brand label, located on the front of the bottle, shall include brand name, “Maple Wine” designation, and alcohol content. Labels must also include Bottler’s name and address, net content, sulfite declaration, and a health warning statement. Additional information regarding wine labeling can be found at link (2).

b. Where and How to Sell

- i. Many maple wine producers may choose to sell their product on premise like many other maple syrup products. In accordance with the New York Alcoholic Beverage Control Article 6 Section 76-A, wine producers acting under the Farm Winery License are authorized to sell their products from the licensed facility including offering tastings on premise. Wine tastings are a great way for customers to try your product and for you to share information about the production and creation of your unique product. For information regarding on-premise tasting of your product, review section 3c of the linked article from the New York State Senate.

2. Making the Wine

a. Equipment Considerations

- i. In order to transition your facilities into a wine production, you may consider acquiring some additional equipment to help with the process. A plastic, glass, or stainless steel fermentation vessel is a must have. For ideal fermentation, you should be able to control the temperature of your fermenting product either in a temperature controlled environment or in a temperature controlled jacketed vessel. Examples of fermentation vessels can be found in links (1) below. Wine production requires accurate volumetric measurement as well as final alcohol and sugar content measurement. For this, consider purchasing a refractometer and hydrometer, examples can be found in links (2) below. During the fermentation, you may find it useful to track Brix using a refractometer which you may already have from maple syrup production. Bottles and filling equipment may also be required, examples can be found in links (3). Finally, and most importantly, for safety and quality of your product, ensure all equipment and tools are properly cleaned and sterilized before use. Please pay special attention to the cleanliness of your production and facilities, some sanitizing equipment that may be useful can be found in link (4).

b. Consumables

- i. Based on trials conducted by the authors of this guidebook, additional yeast supplements are required for successful fermentation. GoFerm is a dried yeast nutrient that can be added during the rehydration of yeasts prior to fermentation to provide necessary nutrients for yeast and ensure survival during fermentation. A link to GoFerm has been linked below (1) although other providers offer various options for package size that may be more appropriate for your operation. During fermentation, yeast may also require additional nitrogen in the form of yeast assimilable nitrogen (YAN) which can be found under the commercial name, Fermaid K (link 2). Instructions for addition of both supplements are described in the sample recipe found in Appendix A of this guide.
 1. GoFerm <https://scottlab.com/goferm-goferm>
 2. Fermaid K (YAN) <https://scottlab.com/fermentation-cellar/nutrients/fermaid-k-fermk>
- ii. In addition to nutrient supplements for the yeast, maple wine production requires the addition of acid for a balanced flavor. We suggest tartaric addition in the example recipe but you may want to experiment with other acid additions. In the links below, please find common acids used in wine making. Keep in mind, these acids are suggested for use in grape wine and may not present desired flavors in a maple syrup-based wine.
 1. Tartaric Acid <https://www.midwestsupplies.com/tartaric-acid>
 2. Citric Acid <https://www.midwestsupplies.com/citric-acid>

3. Acid Blend <https://www.midwestsupplies.com/acid-blend>
- iii. Our team experimented with 5 different yeast strains and determined that strain V1116 fermentation resulted in the most desired flavor and aromatic qualities that exemplify the maple syrup. Results of our initial yeast strain trials are detailed in Appendix A following the sample recipe. Depending on your preferences, a different strain may be best for you. Consider yeast strains ideal for ice wines, champagnes, and mead. All yeast strains cited in this guide are commercially available for purchase.
- iv. Fining agents may be used to clarify, soften, or adjust the color of your wine if desired. Bentonite was found to be most successful in our trials but you may wish to experiment with isinglass, casein, or carbon based on your preferences. Below is linked a guide to different fining agents published by the Australian Wine Research Institute that might be useful in your research.

 WITHIN THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

Paragraph 4 of Bulletin #79, issued under date of January 30, 1942, is hereby rescinded. This paragraph dealt with the minimum office requirement for out-of-state wholesalers. These requirements are restated herein and amplified in order to include requirements for licensees operating more than one wholesaler premises within this state. New matter is underlined.

Wholesale licensees having their principal offices in another state and wholesale licensees operating more than one licensed premise within the state are required to observe the same provisions of the law governing wholesalers as licensees operating one principal office within the state. Inquiries have been received from such licensees as to the proper method of operating the licensed premises in this state, particularly with respect to the books and records which are to be kept. For the information and guidance of wholesale licensees, the liquor authority has laid down the following minimum office requirements.

1. The licensed premises must be physically separated from any other premises.
2. No other business may be conducted on the licensed premises.
3. The premises must be in charge of any employee of the licensee, and open during regular business hours.
4. The books and records must be kept on the licensed premises, which shall show:
 - a. All purchases of alcoholic beverages made within or without the state by the New York licensee, together with the names, addresses and license numbers of the persons from whom the same were purchased. A separate record must be kept of all alcoholic beverages which a branch office receives from the main office which is licensed within the state.
 - b. All sales of alcoholic beverages made within the state, together with the names, addresses and license numbers of purchasers, including invoices and delivery receipts. A separate record must be kept of all shipments of alcoholic beverages made to the main office of the licensee which is licensed within the State of New York.
 - c. The receipt of all payments for alcoholic beverages sold within the state.
 - d. The names and addresses of all employees operating within the state, together with their salaries or commissions and permit numbers. Where the licensee operates more than one premise within the state and where complete records are maintained on a licensed premise within the state and available for inspections, duplicate records of these items are not required to be kept on the premises of the branch office.
 - e. All expenditures for the maintenance or operations of the New York licensed premises or branch office. Where the licensee operates more than one premise within the state and where complete records of expenditures for the maintenance or operation of all branch offices are maintained on a licensed premise within the state and available for inspection, duplicate records of these items are not required on the premises of the branch offices.

All out-of-state wholesalers who are unable to keep the original records on the licensed premises in this state, must apply to the State Liquor Authority in writing for permission to keep duplicate records in place of the originals.

Retail Food Establishment Exemption Flowchart

Facilities that manufacture/process, pack, or hold food for human or animal consumption in the United States must be registered unless the facility satisfies one of the exemptions in 21 CFR 1.226. One of the exemptions is for “retail food establishments” (RFEs), as defined in 21 CFR 1.227. This chart describes the definition for RFEs.

Retail food establishment means an establishment that sells food products directly to consumers as its primary function. The term “retail food establishment” includes facilities that manufacture, process, pack, or hold food if the establishment’s primary function is to sell from that establishment food, including food that it manufactures, processes, packs, or holds, directly to consumers. A retail food establishment’s primary function is to sell food directly to consumers if the annual monetary value of sales of food products directly to consumers exceeds the annual monetary value of sales of food products to all other buyers. The term “consumers” does not include businesses. A “retail food establishment” includes grocery stores, convenience stores, and vending machine locations. A “retail food establishment” also includes certain farm-operated businesses selling food directly to consumers as their primary function.

(1) Sale of food directly to consumers from an establishment located on a farm includes sales by that establishment directly to consumers:

- (i) At a roadside stand (a stand situated on the side of or near a road or thoroughfare at which a farmer sells food from his or her farm directly to consumers) or farmers’ market (a location where one or more local farmers assemble to sell food from their farms directly to consumers);
- (ii) Through a community supported agriculture program. Community supported agriculture (CSA) program means a program under which a farmer or group of farmers grows food for a group of shareholders (or subscribers) who pledge to buy a portion of the farmer’s crop(s) for that season. This includes CSA programs in which a group of farmers consolidate their crops at a central location for distribution to shareholders or subscribers; and
- (iii) At other such direct-to-consumer sales platforms, including door-to-door sales; mail, catalog and Internet order, including online farmers markets and online grocery delivery; religious or other organization bazaars; and State and local fairs.

(2) Sale of food directly to consumers by a farm-operated business includes the sale of food by that farm-operated business directly to consumers:

- (i) At a roadside stand (a stand situated on the side of or near a road or thoroughfare at which a farmer sells food from his or her farm directly to consumers) or farmers’ market (a location where one or more local farmers assemble to sell food from their farms directly to consumers);
- (ii) Through a community supported agriculture program. Community supported agriculture (CSA) program means a program under which a farmer or group of farmers grows food for a group of shareholders (or subscribers) who pledge to buy a portion of the farmer’s crop(s) for that season. This includes CSA programs in which a group of farmers consolidate their crops at a central location for distribution to shareholders or subscribers; and
- (iii) At other such direct-to-consumer sales platforms, including door-to-door sales; mail, catalog and Internet order, including online farmers markets and online grocery delivery; religious or other organization bazaars; and State and local fairs.

(3) For the purposes of this definition, “farm-operated business” means a business that is managed by one or more farms and conducts manufacturing/processing not on the farm(s).

V. ALLOWABLE REVISIONS TO APPROVED LABELS

Once a label receives TTB approval, you are permitted to make certain changes to that label without submitting it to TTB. The label(s) identified on and affixed to this certificate may be revised without resubmission as follows:

NOTE: Any revision(s) you make to your approved label(s) must be in compliance with the applicable regulations in 27 CFR parts 4, 5, 7, and 16, and any other applicable provision of law or regulation, including, but not limited to, the conditions set forth in the "Comments" below.

YOU MAY...	REVISION APPLIES TO			COMMENTS
	WINE	DISTILLED SPIRITS	MALT BEVERAGE
1. Delete any non-mandatory label information, including text, illustrations, graphics, etc.	YES	YES	YES	If the non-mandatory information in question relates to other information that remains on the label, it is your responsibility to ensure that the remaining information is not misleading after the deletion.
2. Reposition any label information, including text, illustrations, graphics, etc.	YES	YES	YES	The repositioning must comply with any placement requirements applicable to mandatory information. For example, some types of mandatory information must appear on the brand label or must appear together with other label information.
3. Change the color(s) (background and text), shape and proportionate size of labels. Change the type size and font, and make appropriate changes to the spelling (including punctuation marks, changing letters from upper case to lower case and vice versa, and abbreviations) of words, in compliance with the regulations. Change from an adhesive label to one where label information is etched, painted or printed directly on the container and vice versa.	YES	YES	YES	All mandatory information must be readily legible and appear on a contrasting background. If you received approval for a single label then you may not divide the label into multiple labels without re-approval. All changes must comply with applicable regulations, and changes in spelling (including punctuation marks and abbreviations) must not change the meaning of the previously approved information.
4. Change the stated percentages for blends of grape varietals and appellations of origin for wine labels.	YES	N/A	N/A	When used for any of these items, the total percentages for each element must equal 100%. You may not change the name of the stated varietals or appellations without submitting a new application.
5. Add, change or delete a vintage date for wine labels.	YES	N/A	N/A	If the vintage date is deleted, no reference to "Vintage" may be made on any label or other materials (e.g., caps, capsules, corks, etc.) affixed to the bottle. When adding a new vintage date, you must comply with all applicable regulations, including the requirements regarding appellations of origin.
6. Change the optional "produced" or "made" by statements on wine labels to "blended," "vinted," "cellared" or "prepared" by statements.	YES	N/A	N/A
7. Add, change or delete the stated amount of acid and/or the pH level for wine labels.	YES	N/A	N/A
8. Change the stated amounts of sugar at harvest and/or residual sugar for wine labels.	YES	N/A	N/A	See ATF Ruling 82-4 for policy regarding use of sugar content statements and when such statements are required.
9. Add or delete bonded winery or taxpaid wine bottling house number for wine labels.	YES	N/A	N/A	If used, the number must appear in direct conjunction with the bottler's name and address.
10. Change the net contents statement.	YES	YES	YES	Revisions must comply with all applicable regulations governing net content statements and standards of fill. Please ensure that all applicable type size requirements are met for each container size.
11. Change the mandatory statement of alcohol content, as long as the change is consistent with the labeled class and type designation, and all other labeling statements.	YES	YES	YES (Flavored Malt Beverages Only)	For example, you may change the alcohol content of a grape wine labeled with a varietal designation from 13 percent to 15 percent alcohol by volume even though it results in a change to the product's tax classification. However, if the product was designated and labeled as a "table wine," an alcohol content of 15 percent alcohol by volume would be inconsistent with the rules for use of that designation, so this change would not be permitted. Similarly, a label bearing a "rum" designation may not be changed to state an alcohol content of less than 40 percent alcohol by volume. The revised alcohol content statement must be consistent with all other mandatory or optional labeling statements.
12. Add, delete, or change an optional statement of alcohol content for malt beverage labels.	N/A	N/A	YES	Malt beverages that contain alcohol derived from added flavors or other added nonbeverage ingredients (other than hops extract) containing alcohol are subject to mandatory alcohol content statement requirements.
13. Change the statement of percentage of neutral spirits and the name of the commodity from which a distilled spirit is produced.	N/A	YES	N/A	These changes must not result in a change to the class or type designation of the distilled spirits product.
14. Change the mandatory age statement, or delete or change an optional age statement for distilled spirits labels.	N/A	YES	N/A	These changes must not result in a change to the class or type designation. See 27 CFR 5.22 and 5.40 for further information about age statements and minimum aging requirements applicable to certain classes and types of spirits.
15. Delete or change an optional age statement, including a barrel aging statement, for wine and malt beverage labels.	YES	N/A	YES	Statements of age on wine labels must comply with 27 CFR 4.39(b).
16. Add, delete, or change statements or information in order to comply with the requirements of the State in which the malt beverage is to be sold.	N/A	N/A	YES	Applies only to malt beverages sold in that particular state (including the District of Columbia or the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico).
17. Add a new Serving Facts statement or statement of average analysis, add a Serving Facts statement to replace a statement of average analysis, or change the numerical values for calories, carbohydrates, protein, and fat contained in an existing statement.	YES	YES	YES	The statement must be in compliance with TTB Ruling 2013-2 and TTB Ruling 2004-1. A new Serving Facts statement is an allowable revision only if it is in one of the formats that is set forth in the examples attached to TTB Ruling 2013-2.
18. Add, delete, or change stated bottling date, production date (day, month, and/or year) or freshness information including bottling, production or expiration dates or codes.	YES	YES	YES	Bottling dates added to wine labels must comply with 27 CFR 4.39(c).
19. Change the name or trade name to reflect a different name already approved for use by the responsible bonded wine cellar, taxpaid wine bottling house, distilled spirits plant, brewery or importer. Change the address where it is within the same State.	YES	YES	YES	This means that a bonded wine cellar, taxpaid wine bottling house, distilled spirits plant, brewery or importer may revise the label to include the use of a name or trade name that is already approved for that particular industry member. The name or trade name must appear on the basic permit, brewer's notice, or other qualifying documents for the company to whom the original certificate was issued. If the name or trade name is also used as the brand name on the label, resulting in a change of brand name, you must submit a new application. The change in address is ONLY allowed for in-state moves or other changes to the COLA holder's address that have already been reflected on the industry member's basic permit, brewer's notice, or other qualifying documents.
20. Add, delete, or change the name and/or address of the foreign producer, bottler, or shipper.	YES	YES	YES	The producer, bottler, or shipper must be located in the same country originally shown.

22. Add, delete, or change bottle deposit information, or container recycling information or logos.	YES	YES	YES
23. Add, delete, or change UPC barcodes and/or 2D mobile barcodes, e.g., QR codes or Microsoft Tags.	YES	YES	YES	Addition or change of UPC Code must be in compliance with Industry Circular 77-23. Any information retrieved from 2D barcodes must be in compliance with all applicable advertising regulations.

29. Delete or change promotional sponsorship-themed graphics, logos, artwork, dates, event locations and/or other sponsorship-related information. (Examples: sports leagues, team organizations, annual sporting events, and annual or semi-annual festivals.) Delete or change charitable endorsement information to include information about the proceeds.	YES	YES	YES	If authorization by a third party was required for use of such promotional sponsorship-themed information on a label when first approved, it is the responsibility of the industry member to have any necessary documentation of authorization to cover the revisions to the approved label(s). The labeling statements may not create a misleading impression.
30. Add, delete, or change a label or sticker that provides information about a rating or recognition provided by an organization (e.g., "Recognized as one of the top values in vodka by x Magazine" or "Rated as the best 2012 wine by x Association"), as long as the rating or recognition reflects simply the opinion of the organization and does not make a specific substantive claim about the product or its competitors.	YES	YES	YES	These statements or graphics must not conflict with or qualify any mandatory information and must comply with all applicable laws and regulations. Substantive claims about the product or its competitors are not covered by this exemption.
31. Delete all organic references from the label.	YES	YES	YES	If you choose to delete one organic claim on a label on which you have received approval to make organic claims, then all organic claims, references and certification statements must be deleted on the revised label. 32. Change an approved sulfite statement to any of these options: "Contains Sulfites", "Contains (a) Sulfiting Agent(s)", "Contains [name of specific sulfating agent]", "Contains Naturally Occurring and Added Sulfites", or "Contains Naturally Occurring Sulfites." "Sulphites" may be used in lieu of "Sulfites."	YES	YES	YES	A sulfite statement is required when sulfur dioxide or a sulfiting agent is detected at a level of 10 or more parts per million, measured as total sulfur dioxide. The statement used must accurately reflect all of the sulfur dioxide or sulfiting agent(s) present in the alcohol beverage. For wine: Any other variation of the statement or removal of the statement requires a lab analysis. For sulfite waivers, the proprietor must have proof of sample analysis from a TTB-certified laboratory or from the TTB Compliance Laboratory.
