“2012 Community Indicator Report, Human Capital Development and Education”

Featuring

Catherine Mosbacher

President & CEO, The Center for Houston’s Future

Ms. Mosbacher will guide us through the 2012 Community Indicator Report, which views the issue of human capital development as one that must be tackled holistically and with the support of all sectors. The report examines public education along a continuum: Early Childhood, K-12, and Post-Secondary Success/Workforce Preparedness. It also addresses the undeniable link between good health and education. Awareness of the region’s performance on key education related indicators is the first step to solving the human capital challenges that determine Houston’s future.
