Strange Weather: From the Collections of Jordan D. Schnitzer and His Family Foundation
October 21, 2023 through April 7, 2024
Strange Weather features contemporary art works which illuminate and reframe the boundaries of bodies and the environment. The artworks included in the exhibition span five decades, from 1970–2020, and are drawn together for how they creatively call attention to the impact and history of forced migrations, industrialization, global capitalism, and trauma on humans and the contemporary landscape.

Glenn Ligon: From the Collections of Jordan D. Schnitzer and His Family Foundation
October 21, 2023 to April 7, 2024
Glenn Ligon: From the Collections of Jordan D. Schnitzer and His Family Foundation brings together works on paper by the influential artist that explore how constructions of Blackness in the United States infuse popular culture, literature, and history.

Lessons of the Hour—Frederick Douglass
Through December 10, 2023
Lessons of the Hour — Frederick Douglass is an immersive, multiscreen film exhibition by British filmmaker and installation artist Sir Isaac Julien. This exhibition explores the life of Frederick Douglass—the visionary African American writer, abolitionist, statesman and freed slave—through selected excerpts of his most compelling speeches and moments from his private life.

With Open Eyes
Through December 17, 2023
Academic Year 2023–24 marks the 50th anniversary of the Center for the Study of Women in Society (CSWS) at the University of Oregon. JSMA joins our colleagues in the campus-wide celebration of CSWS's history of intersectional feminist research including considerations of gender, race, class, ability, and sexual orientation; and a commitment to social justice and gender equality.

The Art of Being Well: Highlights of the Museum’s Programs for Wellbeing
Through January 28, 2024
Each year, the JSMA's Art Heals program serves diverse audiences both locally on campus and throughout Oregon. The current exhibition on view in the Education Corridor Galleries includes a sample of over 30 works of art created both in-person and remotely during Art Heals sessions over the 2022–23 academic year.

Capital and Countryside in Korea
Through May 19, 2024
Capital and Countryside in Korea investigates the representation of urban and rural spaces in Korean art. Touching upon themes of memory and nostalgia, cultural heritage, written language, production and industry, and the significance of specific locales, this exhibition examines how these spaces have impacted the histories, cultures, and identities of people throughout the Korean Peninsula.

Museum of Natural and Cultural History
Information: mnch.uoregon.edu or (541) 346-3024.

Underwater Forests: Oregon’s Kelp Ecosystems
Opens October 28, 2023
Experience Oregon’s dynamic—yet fragile—kelp forest ecosystems and learn why this species is vital to Oregon and the world. Discover the critters that call Oregon's kelp forests home, the threats facing kelp today, and what we can do to help the kelp.

Native Art in Action
Opens November 8, 2023
This exhibit features the work of contemporary Indigenous artist Steph Littlebird (Confederated Tribes of Grand Ronde). Littlebird’s work combines traditional aesthetics with contemporary materials and subject matter to forge connections between our collective past and imminent future. Her works frequently engage issues related to present-day Indigenous identities, marginalized histories, and responsible land stewardship.

Outliers and Outlaws: Stories from the Eugene Lesbian History Project
In the 1960s–1990s, hundreds of young women who identified as lesbians came to Eugene. They founded organizations central to the city and provided leadership for community service agencies. They created lesbian magazines, photographs, music, films, dance performances, theater, and art. They influenced Oregon’s political landscape and contributed to the larger LGBTQ movement. This exhibit is a collaboration between the MNCH, the University of Oregon Libraries Special Collections, and the College of Arts and Sciences. Between 2018 and 2019, Judith Raiskin, associate professor of Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies, and Linda Long, Curator of Manuscripts, interviewed dozens of people in what would eventually be the Eugene Lesbian Oral History Project.

EMU Adell McMillan Gallery
Information: emu.uoregon.edu/galleries

Jenny Kroik
Through October 26, 2023
Jenny Kroik received her MFA from the University of Oregon School of Art and Design in 2010. She is a New York City-based illustrator. Born in in St. Petersburg, Russia, she moved to Israel with her family in 1989, and then to the United States in 2002. The inspiration for her whimsical, sensitive paintings comes from the people she sees around her and moving to NYC in 2016 has given her endless material for her illustrations.
OHC cosponsors 17th annual Rennard Strickland Lecture

The UO Environmental and Natural Resources Law Center’s Native Environmental Sovereignty Project presents the 17th annual Rennard Strickland Lecture with Elizabeth Kronk Warner on Tuesday, October 24th, 2023, at 6 p.m. in 175 Knight Law Center. Elizabeth Kronk Warner is a citizen of the Sault Ste. Marie Tribe of Chippewa Indians. In addition to serving as Jefferson B. & Rita Fordham Presidential Dean of the S.J. Quinney College of Law at the University of Utah, Kronk Warner is an appellate judge for her Nation and a district judge for the Prairie Band Potawatomi Tribe. She is also a prolific Indian law scholar focused on environmental issues impacting tribes and other Indigenous communities across the country.

The Native Environmental Sovereignty Project—an interdisciplinary team of faculty and student research fellows at the UO School of Law—established the Rennard Strickland Lecture in 2006. The lectureship honors the legacy of former UO Law professor and dean Rennard Strickland (1940–2021). Strickland was Osage, a citizen of the Cherokee Nation, and a leading scholar in federal Indian law and policy. As a faculty member with Oregon Law, Strickland advanced both the Environmental and Natural Resources and Indian Law programs.

The lecture, cosponsored by the OHC’s Endowment for Public Outreach in the Arts, Sciences, and Humanities, will be also be available on Zoom. For information go to: law.uoregon.edu/academics/centers/enr

Encourage undergraduate students to apply for an Archival Studies and Practice Fellowship

Information and application at ohc.uoregon.edu

Deadline: Friday, October 13, 2023 at 5 p.m.

The study of and research in the humanities helps students develop critical thinking, problem solving, communication, presentation, collaboration, and other important skills required to successfully navigate an ever-changing post-college world regardless of the chosen profession, and to be prepared to help solve society’s most complex issues. To assist students in this transition and to create a student-to-career pipeline, the University of Oregon’s Oregon Humanities Center and UO’s Libraries Special Collections and University Archives are collaborating to offer an undergraduate student fellowship program focused on building primary archival research and career readiness skills.

UO undergraduates interested in the humanities and humanities-affiliated social sciences and professions can earn eight internship credits and a $3,000 fellowship stipend during the twenty-week program during the 2024 winter and spring terms. The program will provide students with important humanities library sciences research and career readiness skills, while expanding their post-college job prospects. Students from diverse backgrounds and disciplines are encouraged to apply.

Applicants will be notified in November 2023.
