Closing Remarks

Trustee Lubrano put forward a resolution proposing the Penn State Board of Trustees declare Joe and Sue Paterno Day, at a date and time to be decided in Fall 2024, and the Beaver Stadium football field be named Paterno Field, which was seconded by Trustee de Levie. Trustee Paterno provided remarks regarding the resolution.

The entirety of Trustee Lubrano’s comments are as follows:

“1983 was a watershed year for Penn State both athletically and academically. On January 1st, our beloved Nittany Lions defeated the Georgia Bulldogs 27-23 to claim its first National Championship in football. But something else happened that year that would set the course for us to become who WE ARE today. On January 22, 1983, just days after the victory in the Sugar Bowl, Penn State held its regularly scheduled Board of Trustees meeting and Joe Paterno was invited to speak. His message that day speaks to the profound impact of Paterno as an academic visionary. Most people were expecting him to ask for more funding for football resources or to talk about the successful season. Instead, Paterno delivered a speech critical of the Board’s reactionary and conservative governing style and pushed the Trustees to launch a serious fundraising campaign to strengthen academic units and bring in world class professors. It was a bold move for a football coach - at his first Board meeting ever no less - to call out his bosses to use the momentum from football’s recent success to build a better university. This speech led to “The Campaign for Penn State” and the fundraising excellence we have today. Some might ask, why look back now at such a groundbreaking speech more than 40 years ago? Fair question. Earlier today the Board approved a resolution to name the Chemistry Building after Dr. Stephen Benkovic, an Evan Pugh Professor and Eberly Chair in Chemistry, who is known for his major contributions that have impacted our understanding of biological processes. Dr. Benkovic served Penn State for 48 years. This recognition seems well-deserved. Since my return to this Board in July, 2020, I have urged the Administration and Trustees to meaningfully recognize the innumerable contributions of Joe and Sue Paterno to our great school. Sue turned 84 just two days ago. If you visit Joe Paterno’s gravesite, you’ll find these words from Robert Browning on his headstone. “Ah, but a man’s reach should exceed his grasp, or what’s a heaven for?” Joe Paterno was an educator first, and a football coach second. WE were incredibly blessed to enjoy the benefits of his visionary thinking, and all of us in this room should be immensely proud of the culture that his thinking helped to create. Joe Paterno’s contributions to this University can never be erased and he will never be forgotten. So, my fellow Trustees, we have reached the moment of truth. Are we going to honor two people who have literally given their lives in the pursuit of a better Penn State or are we going to allow feamongering to prevail? At this moment, I am reminded of the words of Franklin Delano Roosevelt. On March 4, 1933, the country was almost 3 ½ years into what became known as the Great Depression. History will note that on that date FDR was sworn in as the... country's 32nd President. His inaugural address to the nation was noteworthy for its reference to the memorable phrase: “...the only thing we have to fear is fear itself…” But most people don't know the words that follow: “…nameless, unreasoning, unjustified terror which paralyzes needed efforts to convert retreat into advance.” Fear mongering. We have an opportunity to fulfill our mission of teaching, research and service by using this as a teachable moment. So let us do what is right and just by significantly and meaningfully honoring Sue and Joe Paterno for their lifetime contributions of time, talent and treasure to this University. With that, Mr. Chairman, I offer the following resolution:
