Guidelines for Arab Republic of Egypt Public Service Fellowships for Students from Egypt
Academic Year 2026-2027

The Arab Republic of Egypt Public Service Fellowships support graduate students from Egypt who are applying for a full-time, in-residence master's degree program at the Harvard Graduate School of Design, the Harvard Graduate School of Education, the Harvard Kennedy School, or the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health.

The fellowships are made possible by the generosity of the Government of the Arab Republic of Egypt and were established to build Egypt's capacity for effective leadership and governance. They will be awarded to students of high intellectual ability, outstanding leadership potential, and demonstrated commitment to public service.

Fellowship candidates must apply for consideration prior to the start of their academic programs. Students currently enrolled at Harvard are not eligible to apply. Candidates will be evaluated on the basis of:

- Academic and professional merit
- Demonstrated record of performance and integrity
- Financial need

Fellowship candidates must apply to and be accepted to an academic degree program at the university independently from their fellowship application. Admissions applications must be submitted prior to submitting a fellowship application. Candidates do not need to know their admissions status in order to apply for this award. Admission to the university does not guarantee a fellowship award.

Fellowship recipients must be enrolled in full-time, in-residence degree programs which run during the regular academic year. Students applying to part-time, summer-only, or on-line programs are not eligible for consideration.

The size of the fellowship award will be based on financial need and may include up to full tuition and fees plus a stipend to cover the projected costs of attendance. The fellowship is awarded for up to two years in a degree program.
