Learning
What we learned, still need to learn, growth edges
Signals of the Problem

- Absence of Bilateral Trade Agreement between Kenya & Canada
- Low volumes of trade between the two countries
  - Canada: imports $108m, exports $27 m
  - US: imports $367m, exports $527m
- Existing trade in non-complex commodities mainly grains and other agricultural products (Grains and textile: 51%)
- Lack of direct transport links between the two countries (Both Canadair and KQ have no direct flights to each of the two countries)
Problem Statement

Limited trade processes, systems, and support structures affect Kenya’s progression of trade with Canada.
Deconstruction of the Problem
Limited ICT-driven portals for taking products from farm to markets
Limited international media access limiting producer awareness of international markets
Non-binding/Insufficient MoU Lack of interest by both govts. Limited regulatory framework Limited continuity between representatives in government institutions Canadian investors perceptions about Kenyan business environment Limited tech expertise of negotiating teams/trade professionals with government Limited tech expertise of local producers and farmers Missing critical political support from government leaders

Limited ICT literacy of Kenyan producers
Limited ICT-driven portals for taking products from farm to markets
Limited international media access limiting producer awareness of international markets
Systemic barriers for storage and international export from local market limits producer participation
Long time to register new businesses limits direct foreign investment
Dispute resolution mechanisms are not robust enough

Entry Points, Iterations
Identified Entry Points

- Lack of interest by both govts
- No direct link between Kenya and Canada
- Canadian investors perceptions about the Kenyan business envr
- Limited expertise of Kenyan negotiating teams
- Missing political support from govt leaders
Ideas to start with

Connecting Kenya and Canada:

- Working with Air Canada and Kenya Airways, to establish direct flights between the two countries to promote trade of perishable goods and travels relating to business and tourism.

- Work with the Ministry of Trade and Tourism, and Diaspora, to promote Kenya to Canadians as a tourists’ destination.

- Use Diaspora to enhance information-sharing between the two countries - personal and business networks, tourism perceptions, storytelling.
Ideas to start with

Capacity Building and Knowledge Transfer

○ Train civil servants at Kenya Foreign Service Academy and business leaders

○ Engage with Harvard Negotiation Project/ Building State Capabilities or HLS

○ Connect to Kenyan Universities that offer training on International Trade and Diplomacy and Public Policy
LEARNING AGENDA: Capacity Building

ACTION STEPS Next 4-6 weeks

1 - Engage with Strathmore U. and U. Nairobi in Kenya to create a community of practitioners.

2 - Invite Harvard faculty eg. Salimah Samji to guest lecture a session at the Kenya Foreign Academy to train the Kenyan diplomats/civil servants.
LEARNING AGENDA: Connecting Kenya & Canada

ACTION STEPS Next 4-6 weeks

1. Work with Kenya Ministry of Tourism to include Canada as a priority country of origin for tourists.

2. Work towards designating 2022 as the “Kenya-Canada Year of Exchange Cultural Program.
   - Initiate conversations with both governments
   - Initiate conversations with business communities in both countries

3. Initiate conversation with the Kenyan diaspora community to support improvement of perceptions and boost trade links
What we still need to know:

Authority to Dr. Imbenzi
Unsure if Dr Imbenzi will receive the personnel, resources & authority he needs.

Canadian Side of Affairs
Engaged only with Kenyan side of the affairs. Canadian side may have open windows of opportunity.

Kenyan General Elections
The next administration may look closer to home e.g. Africa Continental FTA rather than beyond.

Engaging the Diaspora
We couldn’t figure out exactly how we could engage with the large Kenyan diaspora.

Missing Support
Couldn’t be sure of the lack of interest/priority to this issue by governments/politicians.

Market Structure
We couldn’t focus on learning about the Kenyan/Canadian market and trade incl. tariffs.
Learning
Lessons Learned

Problem
Trade agreement is just one component

Causes
Identified many causes but some are impossible to approach - i.e. corruption

Ideas We Identified
Focus first on low-hanging fruit; Choose ideas where authorizer has authority, ability, acceptance

Working as a Team
Communication, mutual respect, humor and tools to share data real-time to quickly progress

Doing PDIA
Learn fast; reflect regularly; crawl the design space; build relationships

<tr>
<th>Entry Point</th>
<th>Authority</th>
<th>Acceptance</th>
<th>Ability</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SELECTED ENTRY POINT 1: No direct link between Kenya and Canada</td>
<td>Medium - our authorizer could get the political support needed from both countries. But it could be hard to advocate with the private sector</td>
<td>Large - a direct link between the two countries would be beneficial for bilateral trade, government, citizens, and diverse interest groups, and it would also incentivize both economies. However, we are unsure of the acceptance from airlines</td>
<td>Medium - the government may not have the resources to create this link, but the private sector could.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SELECTED ENTRY POINT 2: Limited tech expertise of negotiating teams/trade professionals with government</td>
<td>Large - The authorizer can initiate training for high level government officials and the creation of permanent portfolios to focus on trade issues across different government departments</td>
<td>Large - There should not be any resistance by different professionals within the government department. Caveat - There is possibility of these professionals being lobbied by the “beneficiaries” of inefficient trade</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lack of interest by both governments</td>
<td>Large - Our authorizer has positional authority in both gov’ts based on his position being approved by both Kenya &amp; Canada.</td>
<td>Medium - We see some concerns /pressures from lobby organizations (cartels) &amp; corruption of some Kenya gov’t officials. We do not know the Canadian gov’t perception.</td>
<td>Large - Our authorizer has time, resources, and the skillset to affect change.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Canadian investors’ perceptions about Kenyan business environment</td>
<td>Low - This will be affected by multiple factors, not all of them are under our authorizer’s control</td>
<td>Medium - Canadian investors would like the opportunity to access a new market provided it comes with securing their interests. But there are things outside of the investors’ control as well, e.g., regional, political instability</td>
<td>Large - the authorizer has the skills and know-how to sit with Canadian investors/business leaders and inform/persuade them of the Kenya's business environment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Missing critical political support from (Kenyan) government leaders</td>
<td>Large - Our authorizer has key contacts with multiple levels of government leaders and is well-respected to influence fellow Kenyan gov’t leaders.</td>
<td>Medium - Corruption, and external forces may influence some politicians who may resist change, but there are likely many others who do not have education and awareness of the trade concerns and might easily accept the need for change and benefit from information.</td>
<td>Large - Our authorizer has the time, resources, and the skillset to affect change.</td>

The Canadian Safari team is committed to communicating with each other through Google docs, WhatsApp, a weekly Zoom video meeting, and e-mail. We agree to respond to all messages in a timely manner. Our team commits to use our time together efficiently by being prepared for weekly team discussions and completing our assigned team duties. We agree to start meetings on-time, attend for the full duration of the meeting, and let others know if we can’t make it by sending a WhatsApp message. We will designate a weekly leader (Friday - Thursday) to create agendas for our authorizer check-in and team meetings; lead the meetings and interview questions; email with the authorizer; create zoom links, create the weekly team assignment in google docs by noon and Thursday; submit completed assignments. If the lead needs assistance with weekly leader duties, they will ask for help in whatsapp. We will designate a weekly scribe to take meeting notes and post in the google doc “PDIA Notes” in a timely manner.

We expect that all of us will talk at group meetings, give feedback and contribute to discussions, be responsive to group requests, and embrace silly and stupid questions. We will work to reach consensus before we adjourn the team meeting; each member gets a vote and the tiebreaker, if needed, is the weekly scribe. Our goal will be to complete the team submission during the weekly group meeting, but if needed, the team submitter will finish final edits post-meeting. Team submissions will reflect the best thinking of the group. We will hold each other accountable by assigning weekly duties and responsibilities and following-up on this work. Our team will meet weekly at 5:00pm on Wednesday with our authorizer and at 4:30pm on Thursday.

If one of us violates our team constitution, we will dance or sing a song at the next group meeting.
