Neurolang-AD 2019 NeLLab DataBlitz

Tracking the building blocks of pitch perception in the auditory cortex
Ellie Abrams, New York University

Title TBD
Esti Blanco-Elorrieta, New York University

MEG evidence for semantic priming in object naming
Julien Dirani, New York University Abu Dhabi

An MEG & fMRI Investigation of noun-noun compounding
Graham Flick, New York University

Transforming continuous speech into a hierarchy of linguistic representations
Laura Gwilliams, New York University

Processing of oriented-adverbs in sentence composition
Songhee Kim, New York University

Best in the brain: decoding vowels in speech perception
Ben Lang, New York University Abu Dhabi

Neural correlates of syntactic composition
Ryan Law, New York University Abu Dhabi

Semantic association and semantic composition in the left ATL
Jixing Li, New York University Abu Dhabi

Dissociating syntactic and semantic processing in minimal Arabic phrases
Suhail Matar, New York University

Investigating the effects of syntactic modulations on conceptual combination
Alicia Parrish, New York University

Simple sentence composition in the bilingual mind
Sarah Phillips, New York University

Discourse updating in the right hemisphere
Maxime Tulling, New York University

Phonemic prediction of spoken Arabic words
Samantha Wray, New York University Abu Dhabi