

2020 NYU CESS Political Science Poster Session Program

March 6, 2020

Talbot Andrews	"(Antisocial) Punishment is Equally Effective Across Cultures"
Emelien Akotenou	"Youth Participation in Politics Through Consultative Process and Local Governance Accountability: Evidence from Benin"
Marina Alvarado	"Comparative Tax Fairness: Experimental Evidence"
Sabrina Arias & Christopher Blair	Changing Tides: Public Attitudes on Migration, Climate Change, and Climate Migration"
Nejla Asimovic	"Growing Closer or Further Apart: Exposure to Social Media in Post-Conflict Settings"
Soubhik Barari	"Affective or Deceptive? The Misinformation Effects of Political Deepfake Videos"
Zenobia Chan	"Polarization for Paralysis: How Authoritarian Regimes Weaponize Information to Shift Foreign Political Behaviors"
Dragana Davidovic	"Exploring Environmental Policy Acceptability: Identifying Causal Mechanisms and Manipulating Trust in an Experimental Setting"
Gustavo Diaz	"Using Double List Experiments to Reduce Design Effects"
Guzel Garifullina	"Institutional Factors of Nascent Political Ambition: When do Risk-Avoiders Seek Office?"
Nicholas Haas & Emmy Lindstam	"Locked out of Power: Historical Exclusion and the Decision to Run for Office"
Elizabeth Harris	"Identity Concerns Influence Belief in Fake News"
Karen Jeffrey	"Automation and the Future of Work: How Rhetoric Shapes the Response in Policy Preferences"
Yusuf Magiya	"Islamism, Policy Positions and Vote Choice: What Experimental Evidence Tells About Islamist Advantage in Turkey"
Taylor Mattia	"Reducing Racial Disparities in Crime Victimization"
Maura McDonald	"God's on Our Side: The Risk Calculus of Religious Messaging in American Politics"
Aykut Ozturk	"Emotions and Support for Executive Aggrandizement: Evidence From Turkey"

Anastasia Papadopoulou	"Identity and Corruption: A Laboratory Experiment"
Diego Reinerio	"Is the Political Slant of Psychology Research Related to Scientific Replicability?"
Clareta Treger	"When Do People Accept Paternalism? Experimental Evidence"
Clara Wang	"Influences on Information Diets in Online Information Deserts"
Shane Xuan	"Curbing Clientelism in Local Elections: Evidence from the Philippines"
Sidak Ynitso	"Racial Bias in Criminal Appeals"
Tongtong Zhang	"Censorship and Gender: Experimental Evidence from Confucius Institute Teachers"

Professor Melissa Michelson (Menlo College) will host a Women Also Know Stuff (WAKS) table during the poster session.