

New York University

A private university in the public service

Graduate School of Arts and Science

M.A. in Historical and Sustainable Architecture

M.A. in Historical and Sustainable Architecture Open House / Information Session for 2019-20

Kings Cross Granary, Granary Square, and Regent's Canal. Several of our faculty worked on these projects, adapting a formerly industrial landscape into a lively center for education, recreation and social gathering. The Granary building is now the campus for the art school Central Saint Martins, University of Arts London.

Thursday October 18, 6:00 p.m.
Silver Center 307
100 Washington Square East

Looking for a future path? Love old buildings? Why not make them new again? NYU's London-based M.A. Program provides an immersion in adaptive reuse and sustainable building practice. Come learn about the program at our fall open house, featuring presentations about our faculty and curriculum, along with admissions information for 2019-20, and a discussion of career opportunities in the field. Academic directors and alumni will be there to discuss the program and answer your questions. Contact us with any questions at: histsust@nyu.edu

For more information, see our web pages at:

<http://as.nyu.edu/arthistory/programs/graduate>

<https://wp.nyu.edu/ma-historical-sustainable-architecture/>